No Fall River today, so I'm not expecting any problems if you need me tomorrow.

Bob-

Just wanted to inquire about the [REDACTED] case scheduled for trial on 9/22/11 to see if anything has changed and if you think the case will actually go to trial. My Wareham case is still scheduled for that day, but as I previously mentioned, we've never actually had to testify there. The only possible dilemma would be if I have to go to Fall River for court today (I'm on call) because I may spend the night at my parent's house in RI, and then want to check in with Wareham before heading back. If your case is still a go, I would either come back out west right after Fall River or first thing in the morning. And it isn't written in stone by any means that I will have to go to Fall River at all. Thanks.

Bob-

I have another district court case scheduled in Wareham on 9.22.11, but we are normally on call there, so they wouldn't need me until the afternoon. Also, although we have received a few summonses from Wareham, we have never had to go there to testify. so I do not expect a problem.
